THIS TALK COVERS BOTH CLORIS'S CAREER AND FAMILY

She talks of the high points of her career from its beginning to the current year. In 2008 she has already completed three new films: The Women, starring Annette Bening, Meg Ryan, Candice Bergen, Debra Messing, Jada Pinkett Smith and Bette Midler. American Cowslip, starring Val Kilmer, Peter Falk and Rip Torn. And New York I Love You, starring Eli Wallach, Diane Ladd and Bruce Dern.

Cloris will tell of the stars, directors and writers she's worked with. She will tell of exotic places she's been and the politicians and presidents she came to know. This year she is also completing her autobiography and touring her one-woman show, she will give highlights of those activities.

As to family life she will tell her successful oscillation between her work and raising, feeding and putting her five children through school.

A schematic diagram of a bumblebee shows that it cannot fly. If you look at a schematic diagram of Cloris's life it would seem impossible to have accomplished all that she has. But, like the bumblebee, nullifying her schematics, she has blithely carried her extraordinary load. She does fly!
